ALUMNAEBarnard*MONTHLY*College*COLLEGE YEAR BEGINS

For the sixty-first time since its founding in 1889, Barnard opened its gates to freshmen and upperclassmen on Wednesday, September 28th. On Thursday, September 29th at 1:00 p.m. the first convocation of the academic year was addressed by Dean Millicent C. McIntosh and General Dwight D. Eisenhower, president of Columbia University. Of the total estimated enrollment of 1,100 students, 250 were freshmen, and 150 were upperclass transfers from other colleges. The new students represent twenty-four states and twenty foreign countries.

Statistics on the incoming freshmen compiled by Miss Jean Palmer, Director of Admissions, indicate that sixty-four per cent of the class was prepared at ninety-seven public high schools, while fifty-eight private high schools and eleven foreign schools prepared the other thirty-six per cent. Twenty-three New York City public high schools and twenty New York private schools are represented. There were 744 applicants for admission, 150 less than last year, but the class of 1953 is larger by 17 than the class of 1952 was at the beginning of last year. Miss Palmer explains that this is the result of less inclination on the part of applicants to list multiple choices of colleges.

Average age of the freshmen this year is seventeen and a half years, the same as last year. Forty-nine freshmen, comprising twenty-four per cent of the freshman class, were awarded scholarships. Ten members of the class are daughters or sisters of Barnard graduates, and three are daughters of the faculty. Ninety-five different occupations were listed by the girls for their fathers. Twenty-three fathers are executives, eighteen lawyers, fifteen doctors, and fifteen manufacturers.

FIRST LOCAL CAMPAIGN OPENS OCT. 8

Frances Marlatt '21 Heads Westchester Fund Committee; Club Plans Tea-Panel at Meyer Estate as First Event

The first public fund raising campaign for the Development Plan is now underway in Westchester County, New York, where Frances Marlatt '21, of Mount Vernon, has been named chairman of the fund raising committee, a report from Dean Millicent C. McIntosh, general chairman, reveals. The Westchester pattern will serve as a model for similar campaigns among alumnae, parents, and their friends throughout the country. Campaigns in other areas will get underway this year.

Miss Marlatt, a practicing attorney in Mount Vernon, and the first woman member of the County Board of Supervisors of that County, is widely known for her participation in civic activities. She has been moderator for four years of the Sunday afternoon forum discussions on Station WFAS. She has been a member of the Barnard English faculty for several years and has coached the champion student debating squad.

Assisting her on the Westchester campaign as vice chairmen are Mae Belle Beith '21, of Pelham, and Madge Turner Callahan '26, of Tuckahoe. Both are past presidents of Barnard-in-Westchester, and Mrs. Callahan has served as editor of the Alumnae Magazine. Both have been directors of the Associate Alumnae.

With Barnard-in-Westchester, now headed by June Crolley Dickover '40, assisting the Development Plan effort, the campaign will go into action this week. Under Mrs. Dickover's chairmanship, a fall tea will be held at Seven Springs Farm, Mt. Kisco, the home of Agnes Ernst Meyer '07, a trustee of the College. Featured on the program will be a panel discussion on "The Value of a Liberal Arts Education," in which Dr. Lorna F. McGuire, associate dean, Professor Henry A. Boorse, and Professor Joseph G. Brennan will participate. Guests of honor will be Virginia C. Gildersleeve '99, dean emeritus, and Dean McIntosh.

All 800 alumnae living in Westchester County have been invited to the event, which will open the Barnard-in-Westchester season.

COMING CONFERENCE

Barnard's third Alumnae Conference will take place at the College on Friday and Saturday, November 18 and 19. Under the chairmanship of Beulah Amidon Ratliff '15, an associate editor of Survey Associates Inc., the program is being worked out.

Dean Millicent C. McIntosh will open the conference Friday afternoon reporting on activities at College during the past year and plans for the new year, and Alumnae President Dorothy Robb Sultzer '20 will speak on alumnae projects during 1949-50. As a new feature of this year's program, Director of Admissions Jean Palmer will lead a panel of undergraduates in a discussion of their reasons for having chosen Barnard as their college. The lectures designed to bring majors in various fields up to date on recent developments in their subjects will again be given by members of the faculty. Following these lectures on Saturday, a luncheon, with a guest speaker, will conclude the day-and-a-half program.

BARNARD COLLEGE ALUMNAE MONTHLY

Published by Barnard College once a month, except in August and September, through the cooperation of the Associate Alumnae and the Public Relations Office of Barnard College, 3009 Broadway, New York 27, New York. Deadline for next issue: Monday, October 17.

Volume XXXIX, No. 1 • October, 1949

The first issue of the ALUMNAE MONTHLY brings to you current news of happenings at the College, of AABC plans, and of the activities of alumnae. Class news and club notes are included. Smaller than the MAGAZINE, the MONTHLY will be published every month this year in order to keep you up to date. This will be a busy year at Barnard, and it is our hope that the MONTHLY, by keeping us well informed, will help us, Barnard's daughters, to do our part in achieving the goals of the Development Plan.

DOROTHY ROBB SULTZER '20
President, Associate Alumnae

THE CHAIRMAN REPORTS

October 8 is a momentous date on the calendar of Barnard's Development Plan. Westchester launches on that date the first of the regional fund raising campaigns which form a part of our general campaign for $10,811,321. The experience of the Westchester committee will be invaluable in organizing other regional campaigns which will follow during the months to come. No dates have been set for these regional efforts, and no attempt will be made to have them in operation simultaneously. Every area will follow a program designed especially for its needs. The regional campaigns will deal almost entirely with alumnae, and parents of students.

The Steering Committee, of which Winthrop W. Aldrich is honorary chairman, is coordinating the Development Plan campaign. Members of the Committee include Iphigene Ochs Sulzberger '14, and Lindsay Bradford, trustees; Dr. Helen R. Downes '14, and Dr. W. Cabell Greet, faculty; Edith Shearn Kerrigan '22, Martha Boynton Wheeler '28, Ellin Mackay Berlin and Clelia Benjamin Delafield, alumnae; Beatrice Laskowitz and Joann MacManus, '51, students; Robert DeVecchi and Howard C. Lewis, parents; Douglas M. Black, representative from the Columbia University Trustees; Helen Rogers Reid '03, and Dorothy Robb Sultzer '20, ex officio.

Literature describing our goals and outlining our plans for the future has been completed during the summer and will be ready for distribution by October 15. It is heartening to see our campaign actually taking shape, and we are beginning to see encouraging results.

MILLICENT C. MCINTOSH

Chairman of the Steering Committee

COLLEGE YEAR BEGINS

Seventy-one of the new students were class officers at their high schools, fifty-seven were members of student councils, thirty-four were editors of school newspapers and magazines, eighteen were class valedictorians, and twenty were salutatorians. Three high school basketball captains, one head major-ette, and one aviatrix are also members of the class of '53.

Alumnae daughters are Carroll Brown, daughter of Helen Carroll Brown, '21; Barbara Cosgrove, daughter of Dorothy Rohr Cosgrove, '30; Catherine Hutchison, daughter of Bertha Wal-lerstein Hutchison, '20, Sophie Kennedy, daughter of Jean McLeod Kennedy, '27; and Laura Stanley, daughter of Aurora McCaleb Stanley, '30.

NO VETERANS

For the first time since the war, there are no veterans in the freshman class at Barnard. According to an article in the New York Herald Tribune, Barnard is the first college in New York City to have no entering veterans. There are fifteen veterans enrolled in the upper classes this year compared with sixty-eight in the peak year 1946-47.

Other colleges in the New York area also showed a marked decrease in veteran enrollment, ranging from almost fifty per cent fewer at Brooklyn and Queens colleges to about one per cent fewer at Columbia.

CALENDAR

Alumnae will be interested in the following events which will occur during the month of October:

Tuesday, October 4—1:00 p.m. All-College Meeting sponsored by the Undergraduate Association. Addresses by undergraduate officers. Discussion of Honor System.—Gymnasium.

FUND FACTS

A total of $40,502.10 was contributed to the 1948-49 Alumnae Fund through the efforts of 740 fund agents and the class presidents. Of this amount, $34,087.67 was unrestricted, the largest unrestricted sum in the history of the fund. Contributing to the fund were 3,136 alumnae, four Barnard clubs and the Thrift Shop Committee.

The money was earmarked for the following purposes:

Unrestricted	$34,087.67
Scholarships	4,981.43
Special purposes	1,433.00

The work of all the agents, both class and regional, was impressive, but bouquets should be tossed to:

Agents collecting largest amount of money — class: Ruth Lazar '21; area: Martha Shoemaker Terry '37, Houston, Tex.

Agents with largest number of contributors — class: Mary M. Kydd '20; area: Violet Walser Goodrich '20, Hingham, Mass.

Class laurels were earned by the following:

Classes sending in largest amount of unrestricted money — reunion: 1909; non-reunion: 1921.

Classes with largest number of contributors—reunion: 1929; non-reunion: 1933, 1937.

Classes with highest percentage of contributors — reunion: 1909; non-reunion: 1893, 1895.

Plans for the 1949-50 fund are now being developed. This year the appeals will come directly from the Alumnae Office, since the fund agents will be working for the Development Plan.

IMPROVEMENTS

A concrete walkway now extends from the jungle to the 119th Street gateway; the outside trim and much of the interior of Hewitt Hall have been repainted; much painting has also been done in Brooks, where a new fire alarm and exit light system have been installed; the theatre floor has been repaired; the theatre, dining room, and assembly curtains have been fireproofed; and many unseen but major changes have been made in the plumbing. Thirty-one sets of furniture for the residence rooms have been refinished to give a limed oak effect.

SIXTY YEARS AGO

As Barnard celebrates the sixtieth anniversary of its founding, we turn the pages of "Barnard College: the First Fifty Years" for a look into the past:

"Three forty-three Madison Avenue was a four-story brownstone house built according to the plan which New York builders of the early days seem to have imagined was the only possible way of utilizing a lot twenty-five feet by one hundred. . . . In this house the first class gathered in October, 1889—some twenty women, though of these only nine were actually working for a degree.

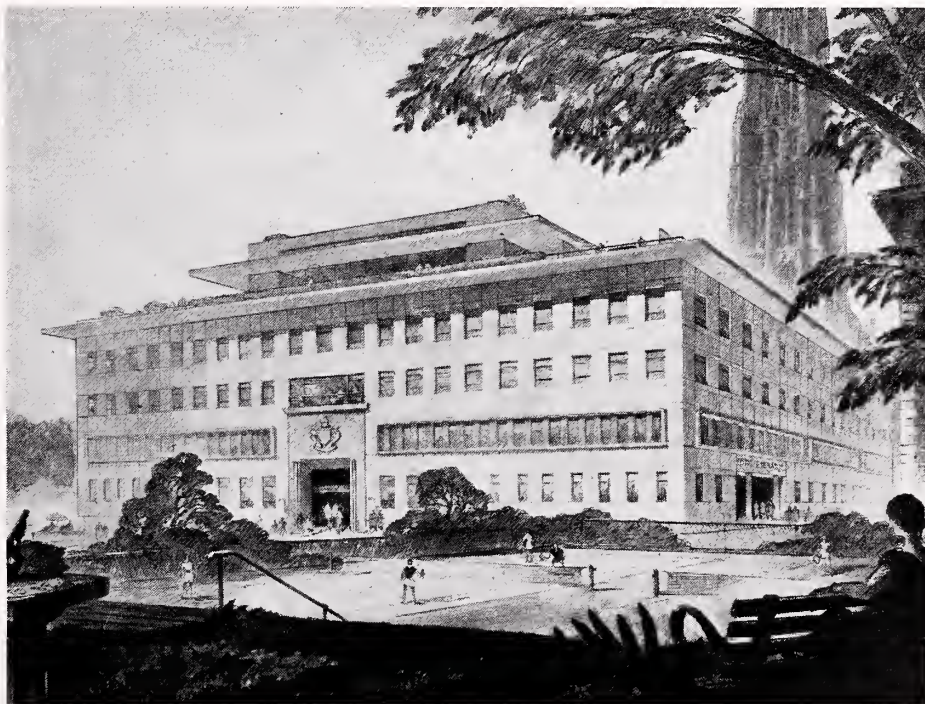

"There had been entrance examinations in the spring, held at Columbia, which then occupied an entire block at Madison Avenue and 49th Street. A woman on that campus was still an unusual sight. One of the girls describes making her way through staring students, trying to find the place to register. The janitor directed her to the President's room. She pushed her way through more staring young men, and finally took her stand in a long line waiting to register. At last President Drisler, successor to Dr. Barnard, appeared, took her under his wing, and escorted her to a small room downstairs, where to her relief she found Annie Nathan Meyer in charge of the registration of Barnard women.

" . . . The college at first offered only six subjects under six Columbia instructors (mathematics, Latin, Greek, English, French, and German). The only choice offered to a student was whether she would take French or German.

"When philosophy was added to the Barnard curriculum, a young professor in the department at Columbia refused to give his course twice and invited the girls to come to his lectures at Columbia. Unfortunately this simple solution proved to be contrary to the by-laws of the older college; but the professor knew the answer to that—to change the by-laws. This was done with an ease that surprised those who had not yet taken the measure of this young professor's executive ability, and from then on the Barnard girls went to Columbia for the lectures of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler. 'It saved my time,' he explained, 'and Barnard's money'."

Architect's drawing of the proposed new academic building, tentatively called Riverside Hall, to be erected on the Riverside quadrangle between 119th and 120th Streets. The building will house the library, the science department, and a new theatre. The roof and the basement will provide additional physical education facilities, including a bowling alley and games space. Architects are O'Connor and Kilham of New York City, who were also architects for the new Firestone Library at Princeton.

FRESHMAN WEEKEND

This year, for the second time in Barnard's history, Freshman Weekend replaced the traditional freshman day of former years. Inaugurated last year, this special Weekend is designed to acquaint incoming students with the College and its activities. Instead of being assigned Junior "sisters," as was customary in the past, today's freshmen are shown around campus by student "sponsors," outstanding upperclassmen who are selected to take charge of the new arrivals.

Beginning at 11:00 a.m. on Saturday, September 24th, the new members of the class of '53 were swept into a whirlwind of activities. For the first time this year, Barnard's orientation program was partially combined with Columbia's. After registering in Brooks Hall, the freshmen were entertained at a luncheon where they were greeted by Associate Dean Lorna McGuire and their class advisor, Professor Clara Eliot. Mary Jean Huntington, '50, president of the Undergraduate Association, and Margaret DeVecchi, '51, chairman of freshman orientation, also addressed the new girls. Tea and dinner were followed by the Barnard-Columbia dance for members of the class of '53 in John Jay Hall.

On Sunday, September 25th, a Barnard-Columbia "playday," a program of sports participation on both Barnard and Columbia campuses, was scheduled, and a picnic supper on the North Lawn followed. The orientation program continued on Tuesday when freshmen at-

Barnard students, working in teams of two, are bringing exhibits from the collection of the Museum of the City of New York to make the sick-room hours more tolerable for patients in New York City hospitals. The project, begun last year under the direction of Katherine Morse McKinney, '25, who is director of community development for the United Hospital Fund, was popular with the students and will be repeated this year. Before going into the hospitals, the girls are briefed at the Museum, and must do considerable research into the background of each exhibit they are to show. They are also briefed by the hospital social service workers on patient approach.

"Coordinating the schedules of hospitals and college students was an extremely difficult task," Mrs. McKinney reports. "Never before have I seen volunteers or workers in any field carry such a responsibility with such enthusiasm. No one ever failed to appear, no one ever failed to do a good job. The hospitals are already asking to have the project resumed on as large a scale as possible."

tended an opening service at St. Paul's Chapel, a luncheon given by Dean Millicent C. McIntosh in Barnard Hall, and a special meeting in the College gymnasium, where they were introduced to student officers.

FACULTY ACTIVITIES

Conrad Arensberg, associate professor of sociology at Barnard, has been sent to Germany by the Rockefeller Foundation to help in setting up research projects in a German research institute making studies of industrial communities in the Rhineland. The Institute is a joint interdisciplinary effort of the Universities of Munster and Bonn in the British Zone, and the Rockefeller Foundation is interested in aiding an attempt to reestablish objective economic and social inquiries in Germany. Professor Arensberg is on leave for the winter session.

John A. Moore, associate professor of zoology, spent the summer in Costa Rica collecting specimens for the Office of Naval Research. The project is concerned with comparing the temperature tolerance of frogs and insects from that area with that of temperate zone animals.

Margarete Bieber, associate professor of fine arts and archaeology, is the first woman to be invited to give a course at Princeton University. She will teach a graduate course for students of fine arts and archaeology during 1949-50. For her work on Pompeian wall paintings, Professor Bieber has been awarded the Medal of Merit by the Italian Government.

THE DEAN SPEAKS

Dean McIntosh, increasingly in demand as a public speaker, is managing to fit a number of speaking engagements into her busy schedule. Many alumnae heard her arguing the affirmative of the question, "Are We Spoiling Our Children?" on the June 21st broadcast of the Town Meeting of the Air, and participating in the Martha Dean radio program on September 15th. During the coming month she will address the annual Y. W. C. A. luncheon meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria (October 13).

She will also speak at the 75th anniversary celebration of Wellesley College (October 16th), and discuss "Keys to Responsible Living" at a meeting of the Westchester Women's Club in Mt. Vernon, New York (October 26th).

PRIZE PLAYWRIGHT

The announcement last April that Rosemary Casey, '26, had been awarded a $5,000 Christophers prize for her play, "Mother Hildebrand," came as no surprise to her friends, who had followed her career as a playwright for years.

After graduating from Barnard as a history major, minoring in English, Miss Casey obtained her master's degree in history from Columbia University. In 1935 her "Agatha Calling" was produced in Philadelphia and on the road. Spurred by this success, she collaborated with B. Iden Payne in a play called "Mary Goes to See" in 1938, and co-authored "Fools for Scandal," a play later produced as a movie. From 1941 to 1946, she served as chairman of the Nurses Aides and secretary of the American Red Cross Chapter in Pittsburgh.

The prize-winning "Mother Hildebrand" is the story of a mid-western

ALUMNAE IN THE NEWS

Leonie Fuller Adams, '22, (Mrs. William E. Troy) of New Milford, Connecticut has written a new book entitled "Poems, 1940-49," her first volume since 1929. Named a recipient this year of the $1,000 grant from the National Institute of Arts and Letters, Mrs. Troy is currently serving a two-year appointment to the Chair of Poetry of the United States Library of Congress, a post held in the past by such famous poets as Joseph Auslander, Allen Tate, Robert Penn Warren, and Robert Lowell.

Recent Barnard grads who have received scholarships under the Fulbright Act and the countries in which they have chosen to study are: Winifred Weislogel, '49, of 428 Mercer Avenue, Roselle, New Jersey, New Zealand; Anne Lathrop Fessenden, '49, of 98 Fair Street, Kingston, New York, Belgium; Beverley Cooper, '49, of 320 South 3rd Avenue, Mount Vernon, New York, New Zealand; Jean Horsfall, '49, of Chestnut Street, South Duxbury, Mass., Belgium; and Doris Kanter, '49, of 1009 Brandon Ave., Norfolk, Virginia, France. Diana Chang Roskolenko '49, of 1466 Rue Lafayette, Shanghai, China, and Lucille Ann Frackman '49, of 1459 51st Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., have also been named winners of Fulbright scholarships.

Elizabeth Hall Janeway, '35, has written a new book, "Question of Gregory," which was published in August.

Anne Gary Pannell, '31, of 25 Patton Place, Tuscaloosa, Alabama, associate professor and chairman of freshman history at the University of Alabama, has been appointed dean of the faculty at Goucher College. Mrs. Pannell received her doctorate from Oxford University, England, after her graduation from Barnard, and has been teaching at the University of Alabama since 1946.

girls' college, and is scheduled for a forthcoming Broadway appearance, with Guthrie McClintock as producer. The $5,000 prize is the first of three drama prizes awarded annually by the Christophers, an organization founded in New York City in 1945.

HONOR B & G STAFF

Fourteen employees of the Buildings and Grounds staff who are known to generations of Barnard alumnae were honored on Tuesday, September 21, when they were awarded pins for twenty-five years or more of service by Dean Millicent C. McIntosh at an open house in their honor held at the College.

More than 100 people, including employees and their families, were present at the ceremonies, which were preceded by a special tour of the campus. Instrumental and vocal solos and a vocal duet provided a varied program of music, with William Callender acting as master of ceremonies. Refreshments were served later in the new student annex to Barnard Hall.

The following employees received awards: For 31 years service in the dining room, Mary Savage; for 30 years, Katherine Treacy in the dining room and William Callender in the residence halls; for 29 years in the academic buildings, Margaret Shea, Herbert Holder and Allan Knight; for 28 years, Mary Lyman and Bethia Park in the lunch room, Mary Quain in the dining room, and Kate Roedell in the residence halls.

Also, Katherine Ryan, for 27 years service in the dining room; Katherine Gillespie, for 26 years in the dining room; William Beale, for 25 years in the academic building; and Geraldine McNamara, for 25 years service in the dining room.

CLUB NOTES

• CHICAGO

Katharine Milan Fansler '26 will head the Barnard group in Chicago this year. She will be assisted by Zenia Sachs Goodman, '42 who has been elected secretary-treasurer.

The club is anxious to increase the number of its active members. Any Barnard alumna in the vicinity of Chicago, either for a brief or long interval, may learn of the activities of the club by calling Katharine Fansler, Whitehall 4-4180, or Zenia Goodman, Essex 5-3124.

• NEW YORK

The opening reception on Wednesday, October 5, under the chairmanship of Margery K. Eggleston '10, marks the official beginning of the club's fall season. A full program for the months ahead has been planned. Among the activities which will get under way shortly will be the annual appeal to raise money for the club scholarship awarded to a Barnard undergraduate. Alice V. D. Clingen '14 is in charge of this year's drive.

Monday is tea day at the club. Once a month the club is hostess to a group of alumnae within a decade, such as the teens or the forties, and often there is a special tea with a guest speaker. An early afternoon groups also meets on Mondays for lectures and tea.

Duplicate bridges occur once a month, but two other types of bridge are played frequently: campus bridge, a variety peculiar to the club, and regular contract bridge.

The younger members of the club are in charge of the Sunday afternoon parties which feature dancing and refreshments. The next of these is scheduled for November 13.

In conjunction with other collegiate groups, the club is sponsoring a forum for the United Negro College Fund on Tuesday, November 29, at the Hunter College Auditorium. Among the speakers will be General Marshall and Mrs. Mildred McAfee Horton.

• PHILADELPHIA

Barnard alumnae in the Philadelphia area packed their picnic baskets, collected their families and traveled to the Downington home of Margaret Wilson McCutcheon '29 for an outdoor supper on the night of June 5. A spirit of fun prevailed, and the only result of the short business meeting was the selection of Saturday, October 8, at 1:30 as the date for the first meeting of the club this fall. Carolyn Whipple Phillips '19 is to be the hostess at her home, 1356 Arbordale Road, Overbrook, Philadelphia.

• STATE OF WASHINGTON

Heading Barnard in the State of Washington this year are Phyllis Hagmoen Cowan '43, president, and Doris Carrington '46, secretary-treasurer. These officers were elected at the July meeting of the club at which Fannibelle Leland Brown '05 reported on her delegacy to the AAUW convention, held in Seattle in June, on behalf of the College and the Alumnae Association.

Denise Abbey '33, on a short leave from her work with the occupation forces in Austria, was the guest of the club at the March meeting and described for the members her job of interpreting this country to Germany and Austria.

Newcomers to the club's meetings during the past year have been Betty Scott Coulter '38 and Adele Alexander Parker '24.

ARCHERY PLAY DAY

A co-educational archery play day and clinic will be held at Baker Field on October 15 under the sponsorship of Barnard's Physical Education Department. The meeting will bring together students and physical education teachers from about fifty colleges in New England and the Middle Atlantic states. Students will be given an opportunity to meet and participate with archers from other colleges. Current up-to-date information and methods relating to archery will be presented by experts to stimulate interest and improvement in skill.

A demonstration of target archery will be given by Jean Lee, national and eastern women's archery champion. Mrs. Myrtle K. Miller, former international, Connecticut State and New York City archery champion, heads a staff of special instructors for the day. Among them will be Corinne Bize of the Barnard teaching staff, who is assisting Professor Margaret Holland on arrangements.
